

A Christian Organization for Working Women

Elaine Creasser National Christian Business Woman Award

Award Description: This award has been established to annually recognize a woman in business who has been responsible for growing a business or excelling in her career with integrity, while giving God the glory for remarkable success in the industry.

Named after Elaine Creasser, this award will be presented yearly to recognize women who are unafraid to declare their careers guided by divine direction. Elaine developed her own multi-million dollar ceramic tile company in Charlotte, N.C., in collaboration with her son. Women's Initiative Network honors Elaine with the distinguished National Christian Business Woman Award as a means of inspiring other women of like minds. Sharing the desire to build and utilize her business in God's glory, this award will bond women across the country in establishing His presence in their God-given initiatives.

Judging: A committee of 7 women will meet yearly to review applications during the month of February. A written form will be used to narrow down finalists for live or teleconference interviews.

Applications: Candidates will be asked to furnish information about their education, business direction, financial performance and public service. Information should be submitted to office@womensinet.com
